Clackamas Community College contributes to the local economy by providing quality job training for high-demand fields. Businesses looking to relocate are attracted to an area by high-quality educational and training programs that can provide a skilled workforce.

The goals of the bond projects are to:

- Increase local access to affordable educational programs that would allow students to transfer to four-year universities or obtain training for family-wage jobs
- Train students in high-demand careers, such as nursing, engineering and manufacturing
- Update and modernize equipment, labs and facilities so students are adequately trained to meet current industry standards

Possible bond projects include:

- Constructing an industrial technical learning center with labs and classrooms that will benefit programs for: electronics, automotive, manufacturing, welding, skilled trades and apprenticeships, such as electricians and plumbers
- Expanding, updating and modernizing equipment and facilities for training in high-demand careers, including healthcare, science and engineering
- Making improvements to existing buildings by replacing worn-out electrical, heating, ventilation and plumbing systems
- Replacing the 61-year-old building at the Harmony Community Campus with an updated workforce development and training facility

A proposed workforce development center would replace the old building on the Harmony Community Campus to support economic development, high-demand careers and transfer degrees.

The new building would use the same square footage, replacing the current building. New construction at Harmony Community Campus would not disrupt traffic on Harmony Road.

The proposed bond debt service in the future is anticipated to be the same as the average it has been over the last ten years.

Next Steps
CCC continues to share information about college programs and the bond proposal with the community.

Clackamas Community College (CCC) was founded in 1966. In preparation for its 50th year of service, the CCC Board of Education developed an engagement process called Imagine Clackamas to help it better understand what its students, businesses and community members most value about the College. Imagine Clackamas shined a light on areas where the College needed to improve and adapt its educational and training programs to better meet the needs of the community it serves, both today and in the future.

This special report summarizes the feedback from more than 2,000 participants. It highlights ways in which the College is responding today to meet those needs and sets the stage for longer term investments, such as a proposed bond measure. The College is inviting community members to continue engaging in the conversation about CCC’s future.

CCC discovered what the community most values

- Degrees and certificate programs that lead to careers and family-wage jobs
- Affordable education that leads to a four-year degree
- Classes and workshops that improve job skills and support career advancement
- Classes that lead to General Educational Development (GED), high school diplomas, and related adult basic skill offerings, such as English as a Second Language (ESL)
- Training opportunities for businesses, career coaching, retraining and credit for work-based experience

Employers

Businesses asked for...

* Graduates who are ready to move into the workplace with interpersonal skills and an aptitude for technology
* CCC to be their go-to college for training and workforce development
* Professional development support for their employees

The College is responding...

* Creating a one-stop employer service to streamline valuable access to training and workforce support
* Evaluating programs and services to better address the community's request for more training that is reflective of market and industry needs
* Developing a Career Center to help graduates improve their job-readiness skills
* Initiating a Rapid Response Team to help employers during difficult times by providing employment and training opportunities to those impacted by downsizing

Over the summer of 2013, the College met with more than 100 members of the business community to learn about their workforce development needs.

Discoveries...

* Good jobs are out there for graduates in a variety of industries, from manufacturing to health science to engineering, but these jobs are going to be highly specialized.
* The College needs to continue aligning its degree pathways and training offerings with both current and future marketplace demands.
* Competition for these jobs is going to be tough. Employers want graduates who have work-based experience, good interpersonal skills and an aptitude for technology.
* The College needs to ensure its graduates are interview ready, not just job ready.
* CCC was asked to lead economic change initiatives.

College prepares for Bond Measure

To address the community's vision for education and training at CCC, the Board of Education is developing a bond measure for the Nov. 4, 2014, ballot that would modernize facilities and equipment for high-demand careers, and build additional classroom and lab space.

The projects in the bond proposal were identified as high priorities by the community through the Imagine Clackamas engagement process.

The Board will finalize the projects at the July 30 Board meeting. The list will likely include a new industrial technical learning center for electronics, automotive, manufacturing, welding and skilled trades programs; modernized training equipment for healthcare, science and engineering programs; improvements to worn-out systems in existing buildings; and replacing the 61-year-old building at the Harmony Community Campus.

If you would like more information on Imagine Clackamas findings or the proposed bond measure, please visit our website, attend a May forum (see back panel) or contact us at publicaffairs@clackamas.edu.

Join Us In Restoring Johnson Creek

Be Part of the Johnson Creek Interpretive Boardwalk and Habitat Project

You stroll along a boardwalk with a handrail of names—yours, your company's, maybe your son's or granddaughter's.

Next to you are Johnson Creek and the salmon, birds, and plants that flourish there. A few yards away are the new SE Tacoma St./Johnson Creek MAX station and new path from the station to the Springwater pedestrian and cycling path.

Be Its Steward

You can help create the boardwalk by claiming a place on its handrail. Your name—or maybe a gift recipient's—will be engraved in stainless steel for you and others to see and touch. And the interpretive panels it links along the way will educate generations to come about Johnson Creek, a natural urban gem.

Just fill out and send in the donation form on the back. For more project information, e-mail Matt Clark (matt@jcwc.org).

New Habitat

Logs and boulder clusters will be installed instream next to the boardwalk to provide habitat for three species of threatened salmon in Johnson Creek. A side channel, dry in the summer, will provide off-channel resting spots for salmon during high winter flows. Removal of invasive plants will create room to plant native shrubs under the existing alder canopy, providing new bird and amphibian habitat and improving water quality.

Interpretive Panels—Wheels of Time

Five interpretive panels on the boardwalk will introduce visitors to Johnson Creek as one of our only salmon-bearing streams in metropolitan Portland and as a community asset whose presence is interwoven with our local history and with our region's development. A changing circle and wheel motif will unify the panels and highlight the site's many modes of transportation. Panel content will be presented in chronological order.

PANEL 1: Native Americans & Early Settlers
PANEL 2: Willsburg & Industrialization
PANEL 3: Modernization
PANEL 4: Today and Tomorrow
PANEL 5: A Healthy Habitat

Intersecting Futures

A newly restored stretch of Johnson Creek and a new light rail station. A place where alternative transportation for humans intersects with a healthier byway for fish. A place where "nature" isn't somewhere else. It's right here.
Donor Recognition:
Stewards of Johnson Creek

Donor names are engraved along the boardwalk handrail. The names create a meandering creek with donor levels designated by type size and separated by fauna and flora silhouettes.

Donor names are etched in stainless steel plate. Recognition varies in size based on donation.
